

TOLENTINO

Winemaker's Selection

MALBEC 2017

For over a century, our past generations have produced grapes and wines of quality and authenticity from the foothills of the Andes Mountains. Selected from small lots in our high altitude vineyards, the grapes for this wine showcase dense, concentrated black fruit aromas and flavors.

Winemaking

The wine goes through a cold pre fermentary maceration to preserve primary aromas, then a series of delestages and pumpovers during fermentation for a more balanced extraction. The juice is fermented for about 14 days at low temperatures and it is followed by a post fermentation maceration. The wine spends around 6 to 8 months in contact with 100% French oak.

Tasting Notes

The Tolentino Winemaker's Selection Malbec has a dark violet color with dense black fruit aromatics and some mocha character in the nose. It also has very soft and silky tannins, a natural balance, nice concentration and a distinctive smooth lengthy finish.
